Green travel

- Consider the environmental impact of your travel
- In order to keep global warming below +2 C:
 - each of us has to limit our carbon footprint to 2300 kg of CO₂ per year,
 - of which only 25% can be allocated for mobility (575 kg)

CO₂ emissions from passenger transport

European Environment Agency

Note: The figures have been estimated with an average number of passengers per vehicle. The addition of more passengers results in fuel consumption - and hence also CO₂ emissions - penalty as the vehicle becomes heavier, but the final figure in grams of CO₂ per passenger is obviously lower. Inland ship emission factor is estimated to be 245 gCO₂/pkm but data availability is still not comparable to that of other modes. Estimations based on TRACCs database, 2013 and TERM027 indicator.

Green travel

- Favor low-emission ways of travel:
 - Train, coaches, shared rides, LNG-ferries
 - If you must fly, favor direct flights or continue your trip after your flight on land
 - Travel in a green way at least in one direction
- In some cases, green travel is cheaper and/or faster than flying (Nordic countries, the Baltics)
- Enjoy the slowly changing scenery and get to know places you wouldn't otherwise travel to

Green travel: trip to Berlin

- Journey by train and plane
 - Jyväskylä-Helsinki (train)
 - Helsinki-Berlin (plane)
 - Travel time: 7 h 8 min
 - Emission/out- and inbound trip: 826.4 kg CO₂-eq
- Green travel:
 - Jyväskylä-Turku (train)
 - Turku-Stockholm (ferry)
 - Stockholm-Berlin (train)
 - Travel time: 31 h 9 min
 - Emission/out- and inbound trip: 480.8 kg CO₂-eq (-42%)

Green travel

- During your exchange:
 - Use train, buses, carpooling. Bike and walk
 - Favor getting to know nearby places
 - Everyday decisions: save energy, avoid foodwaste, recycle, favor plant-based food

Green mobility

- Erasmus exchange: travel grant + an Erasmus-grant for 4 extra travel days provided that
 - the journey or the return journey to the exchange destination has been made entirely by using low-emission forms of travel
 - at least half of the journey and half of the return journey has been made by using low-emission forms of travel

A wide-angle photograph of two women standing on a grassy mountain peak, viewed from behind. They are both wearing white long-sleeved shirts and shorts (one orange, one black). They have their arms raised in the air, with their hands clasped together in the center. They are looking out over a vast, scenic landscape featuring a large, deep blue lake, rolling green hills, and distant mountains with patches of snow under a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds.
